NEWS FROM THE DIVISION

NEW ONLINE EXHIBIT: BASEBALL IN ALASKA

BASEBALL IN ALASKA

Online Exhibit

The final score was the Roaring Gimlets 62 the Pig-Stickers 49. Yes, it was a baseball game!

To find out more about the game and to view baseball photographs from Alaska's past please visit the Alaska State Library Historical Collections' new online exhibit Baseball In Alaska at <http://library.alaska.gov/hist/exhibits/Baseball.html>.

The photographs in this online exhibit provide a glimpse into what baseball was like in Alaska over the past century. The images include group portraits of teams from St. Paul, Metlakatla and many towns in between, a former Governor throwing out the ceremonial first pitch, baseball fans on their way to watch a game, and a mighty swing and miss!

If you would like to see more baseball photographs come to the Historical Collections library and view our in-house baseball display. These photographs are an amazing record of the changes through time in the uniforms worn, the equipment used, and the fields that teams played on.

One thing hasn't changed – the great desire Alaskan's have to get out there and play ball, even on the ice and snow!

STATE ARCHIVES SEARCHES FOR NEW STATE RECORDS MANAGER

The Alaska Department of Education and Early Development, Division of Libraries, Archives & Museums, Alaska State Archives is recruiting for a Records Analyst III position in Juneau.

This position serves as the State Records Manager and directs the Records & Information Management Service for Alaska. The incumbent provides leadership to the State Archivist and to top executive staff of all state departments regarding the orderly creation, administration, and disposition of state records (including digital). The position also recommends and/or decides strategies for the effective maintenance and description of state records in accordance with the AS 40.21, Management & Preservation of Public Records Act. This position authors records retention schedules.

This position provides professional records management consulting services to agencies that have complex information management challenges that may pertain to: email and other electronic records; confidentiality/security of records; essential records; storage of documents; and legal requirements for retention, destruction and discovery of documents. The position is the principal trainer for state employees that are responsible for managing agency records. The incumbent should have experience creating or administering electronic information systems.

Our ideal applicant will possess some or all of the following skills and experience (Please document your level and years of experience, citing specific examples, in your cover letter. Number each answer - if you do not have experience in a particular area, simply say so.):

- Education and/or experience at the journey level in records analysis and management work
- Experience supervising others whose responsibilities included developing records retention schedules
- Experience drafting records retention schedules
- Experience creating or administering electronic information systems
- Experience overseeing the destruction of records
- Experience providing records and information management consultation to large agencies
- Experience training staff in records management principles

Minimum Qualifications:

Bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university in any subject major;

AND

Two years of professional records analysis and management work experience of which at least one year was at the journey level. The journey level experience includes work such as Records Analyst II with the State of Alaska or the equivalent with another employer.

Substitutions:

Graduate education from an accredited college or university in business administration, general management, public administration, information and records management, computer science, legal studies, or a closely related field will substitute for up to one year of the required professional experience (2 semester hours/3 quarter hours equal one month). Graduate education will not substitute for the journey level experience requirement.

A current certification as a Certified Records Manager in good standing from the Institute of Certified Records Managers will substitute for the two years of required experience.

The salary for this position is $5,718/month. The application period closes on Monday, 5/27/2013 at 5pm.

SEALASKA HERITAGE INSTITUTE PARTNERS TO POST TLINGIT LANGUAGE VIDEOS

From a 4/10/2013 SHI Special Collections Research Center blog post titled "Tlingit Language from the Archives of Sealaska Heritage Institute":

The Sealaska Heritage Institute has approximately 5,000 recordings that concern the Tlingit, Haida, and Tsimshian people, which are open to the public for research and educational purposes. Recently the Sealaska Heritage Institute partnered with the Alaska State Library's Historical Collections Department to migrate ten rare format Tlingit language recordings (on Videotronic Super 8 Cartridges) to modern and digital format. These language recordings were originally developed in 1969 through the Juneau Indian Studies Program and consist of ten Tlingit language lessons and use of hand puppets to narrate the language lessons. The Tlingit speakers are Johnny Marks (1943-2009) and Eva Marks (1952-1981). These recordings have now been placed online and can be used for language education.
