

I am ready because I can...

- listen attentively and respond to stories and books
- write using drawings and some letters/numbers and share what I have written
- identify and name at least four basic shapes and tell why they are the shape they are
- identify numbers 0 to 10 and match a set of objects to the correct number
- sort objects by at least two attributes (color, shape, or size)
- count objects, group objects, and count groups
- express my wants and needs, follow directions, simple rules and routines, and control my impulses
- dress myself and manage my own bathroom needs
- write my own name using a pencil, marker, or crayon
- put together ten- to twelve-piece puzzles

I am ready!

ready to learn
ready to read
ready for school

Learn with your child...

...allow your child to perform tasks on his/her own

Sing with your child...

...sing and play rhyming games

Talk with your child...

...talk and listen carefully

Explore with your child...

...help count objects while playing

Read with your child...

...read books daily that are interesting to your child

Create with your child...

...provide paper, pencils, and crayons to draw and write

When it comes to learning, home is one of the best places to start. Young children learn through active involvement with people they love and trust. That's family. They also learn when they are healthy, safe and living in a strong community. That's home.
